

EMPTY VAULTS CAUSED BOODLE

This Is The Latest Phase Of The Pennsylvania State Capitol Scandal.

ONE MAN IS READY TO TELL ALL

Will Relate How Big Political Guns Looted The State House Funds To Fill Up The Depleted Treasury Department.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]
Johnstown, Pa., Aug. 22.—All former theories of the cause and effect of the immense boodle which is said to have exalted at the time of the building of the new capitol at Harrisburg have been exploded today when a new theory was advanced that the money which the state was defrauded of went into the state treasury.

James M. Schumacker, former superintendent of Public Buildings of the state, has declared that he will make a full confession of all he knows of the great swindle which is alleged. His story if true will place a new phase upon the situation and bring about new developments.

Went Into Treasury
Schumacker says that all the money which was taken from the funds set aside for the construction of the new capitol went back into the state treasury. On this point he is certain. He says that the state treasury was depleted and was refunded in this manner to cover up shortages.

Prominent People
It is said that the names of men high up in the political world will be named in his confession which will be very sensational. The indictments by the grand jury have been very sweeping and include many men high in political and business connections. It is said that Schumacker's confession will implicate others not mentioned.

FINED FOR USING ELECTRIC BATTERY TO MAKE HORSE GO

Mailman Attaches Electrical Device To Cart So As To Give Steed Shock--Humane Society Kicks.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Milwaukee, Wis., Aug. 22.—Joseph Ratt was fined one dollar and costs in the district court this morning for cruelty to his horse. Instead of using a whip Ratt had fixed a storage battery in his mail cart and whenever he wanted to urge on his horse he pushed the button and gave the horse a shock. Ratt is a rural mail carrier.

The court said that they had no doubt but that the electrical shock was more humane than a whip in most instances but the statement was made that one of the poles of the battery was attached near the heart of the horse. The judge also said that on general principles the use of electricity for such purposes should not be encouraged.

RAILROADS TO CATER TO GENERAL PUBLIC

Decide to Issue Interchangeable Excess Baggage and Passenger Books.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 22.—The western railroad men have come to the conclusion that it is the best policy to consider the convenience of the traveling public, no matter what legislation is passed by the states against the railroad interests. At a general meeting of officials here today this feeling was made manifest by the tenor of the recommendations submitted by a special committee recently appointed by the Western Passenger Association. Several of the recommendations if adopted will greatly add to the convenience of the traveling public.

Probably the most important of the recommendations is that which provides for an interchangeable excess baggage book to be placed on sale in all western territory. The committee also reported in favor of putting on sale in eastern territory, which is between Chicago and the Missouri river, an interchangeable 200-mile mileage book at a flat rate of $20, the book to be an individual system book and not good off the line of the road issuing it. The committee further recommended the withdrawal from sale of all credit forms of tickets which have become unsaleable.

WIRELESS ACROSS THE ATLANTIC SOON

Marconi Claims That Wireless Telegraph Will be on Commercial Basis Soon.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
London, Aug. 22.—Prior to departing today for America William Marconi gave out the following statement: "I am ready to give confident assurance that the wireless telegraph service between England and Canada will be placed on a commercial basis. It is not a matter of any great length of time either. I am anticipating that the service will be available for public use in a few weeks, and that it will be a profitable and reliable telegraphic service."

It is stated that satisfactory exchanges of messages between the Irish station at Clifton and the Canadian station at Cape Breton have been going on for some time. The earlier trouble encountered from the sun's rays has been overcome and the experiments have proved so satisfactory that the company hopes to be ready to transmit messages commercially from one side of the Atlantic to the other by the end of September. The arrangements have progressed so far, in fact, that a schedule of charges has been issued. This shows the rates to be 10 cents a word plus the land charges for ordinary messages, and 5 cents a word plus the land charges for press messages.

GERMANY SAYS NIT TO SINCLAIR'S BOOK

Sale of Publication Prohibited Because of Slurs at Kaiser William.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
New York, Aug. 22.—Word comes from Berlin that the authorities there have prohibited the sale of Upton Sinclair's book, entitled "The Industrial Republic." The action was taken in pursuance of the law concerning insults to the German Emperor.

In this book the author describes the Kaiser as "a degenerate—who proclaims himself by grace of God the lord and master of the German people." He then passes on to the hideous medieval nobility of the empire, the direct descendants of robber knights, and the aristocracy of the army, whose insolent and dissolute officers beat, kick and maim the helpless country boys and artisans under their command.

No less poignant are his criticisms of "the bigoted Protestant Church with its snuffy country parsons" and "the Roman Catholic Church with its confessional and other agencies of darkness," while of the "repulsive press," he says that its opinions are written and its news garbled by "quavish bureau officials."

HARVESTER TRUST NEXT ON GOVERNMENT'S RACK

Department Of Justice After Long Months Of Investigation, Will Start Proceedings In Chicago.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Chicago, Ill., Aug. 22.—It is expected that the proceedings against the International Harvester company, charged with being a monopoly in restraint of trade, will be instituted by the government some time next week. The suit probably will be led in this city, as the headquarters of the trust are here.

The harvester trust makes the bulk of the agricultural machinery of the country, practically all the harvesters. It has many factories in different parts of the country, having organized them under one company. The trust, however, fixes the price on the output of every factory, and it is charged, as the output of reapers, mowers and other agricultural implements in the United States and that it is violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

and forced them out of business. It is also charged that in addition to absolutely choking off competition the trust sells its products in foreign countries, after paying steamship charges, at lower prices than in the United States.

The legal machinery of the Department of Justice has been at work for months collecting information against the trust, and the information has been put in such shape and secured in such quantity as to warrant proceedings at an early date. The government in its suit will attempt to prove that the International Harvester Company controls at least seventy per cent of the output of reapers, mowers and other agricultural implements in the United States and that it is violating the Sherman anti-trust law.

SAD STORY THAT IS TOLD IN COURT

Three Youngsters Sent to Sparta—
 Father Dead—Stepfather in Jail—
 No One to Care for Them.

In the Municipal court of Beloit a sad little drama was enacted yesterday when Joseph, Bryant and Levi Armstrong, aged twelve, ten and seven, were committed to the home for Friendless children at Sparta. Their father dead, their stepfather in jail for drunkenness, these little fellows came to court with a sad hand, their bright little faces looked pinched and careworn and their eyes were sad and haunted.

The little lads are the sons of Mrs. Armstrong, who at one time lived in Beloit, but who now resides in Janesville. A few months ago her first husband, Mr. Armstrong, was killed by the cars in Janesville. Many people will doubtless remember reading of his death at the time. Mrs. Armstrong was left with the three little boys and without means. A short time ago she married Richard Murphy, a Janesville resident, who, it is alleged, spends the greater portion of his time drinking and making life miserable for his family and is now in jail serving a sentence for drunkenness.

Only a day or two ago, so Postmaster George Segguller was informed, Murphy absolutely refused to keep the children in his home any longer. Mrs. Murphy saw the postmaster who advised placing them in a children's home. The little boys were brought to Beloit and the commitment papers were made out this morning. Mr. Segguller taking them to Sparta today.

In the Beloit courtroom the children sat looking about with their large solemn eyes, without smiling and seeming not to feel the many curious glances cast at them. They talked among themselves and played among the chairs while waiting for the papers to be signed.

Street Assessment Committee Decides to Continue Sidewalk in Front of Parker Property on the Line.

Mayor Heide and the other members of the street assessment committee, to whom was referred the mooted problem of the new walk and old one in front of the William Parker residence at the corner of East Milwaukee and Division streets, visited the place yesterday and reached a decision to continue the construction work on the line furnished by the city engineer but saving the sidewalk around the tree instead of cutting it down. With this vexatious question settled, the aldermen are now free to devote their individual attention to any new controversy of the same nature which impatient citizens may wish to have adjudicated.

ORGANIZED TRIBES

Mohawks, Cheyennes and Shawankas

 Other Sports.
 (Special Correspondence.)

Janesville Y. M. C. A. Camp at Delavan Lake, Aug. 21.—Forty-six boys, intermediates and senior members of the Y. M. C. A. in charge of Field Secretary B. E. Bergman, arrived at the lake late afternoon and prepared a fine dinner. After dinner rowing, fishing and bathing was the order of the day. At five o'clock the boys selected their cuts and arranged their bedding. Then supper followed. A number went for a row on the lake and games and stories occupied others and at 9:30 all prepared for bed. At 10 p. m. lights were out. The sleeping arrangement brings all the junior members together, nine cuts in a row and three rows across the auditorium stage. In the four rooms back of the stage are the intermediates, fifteen in number.

Aug. 21.—Breakfast at 7, followed by a fellowship meeting at 7:30. At 8 a. m. the camp was divided into 3 tribes of 13 each. These tribes elected a chief and captain. A baseball league will be arranged between the tribes. Stewart Richards was elected captain and Elsworth Strong, chief of the Mohawks. Floyd Deans, captain, and Leitch Woodworth, chief of Cheyennes. Roger Cunningham, captain, and Sterling Campbell, chief of the Shawankas.

Mr. Bergman, field secretary, is introducing a number of new games which will keep the boys busy every day of the camp.

A plan is already on foot to have a grand meet of the tribes in a big pond wew at the close of the camp, to which all the campers will be invited.

The boys are all in fine shape and are having a good time.

DANIEL SHERIDAN NAMED
HIS OWN PALLBEARERS

Prior to End He Requested That His Five Brothers and George Dougherty Act.

Shortly before breathing his last yesterday morning Assistant Street Commissioner Daniel S. Sheridan requested that those who act as pallbearers at his funeral be his five brothers and George Dougherty. Mr. Dougherty accompanied Mr. Sheridan to his visit to Pekas and New Mexico last winter and had always been a close friend of the deceased. The funeral will be held from 8 a. m. to 10 a. m. at the funeral home at 1000 Madison street.

A CHANGE OF HEART.

A young woman stepped to the desk in a telephone office the other day and asked in a trembling voice for "telegaph blanks." She wrote upon one, tore it in halves, wrote a second, which she treated in the same manner, and at last a third. This last she handed to the operator with a feverish request that he "hurry it."

This he did, and after she had gone he read the other two for his own amusement.

The first read, "All is over, I never wish to see you again."

The second read, "Do not write or try to see me at present."

The third was, "Come at once, we shall be happy. I have decided to use DEN HUR FLOUR."

TEACH RAILROADING
IN SCHOOL AWHEEL

Union Pacific Company Keep up Efficiency of Men by Sending Instruction Car Over System.

Equipped with air-brakes and signal apparatus instead of stoves and blackboards and manned by a faculty of railroad experts, the instruction car of the Union Pacific railroad has started on an examination of 5,000 miles of territory. In this schoolhouse on wheels has lately been carried out a two months' campaign of education; now examination time has begun for the largest class of students ever brought together by one set of school-masters.

August 1st a new book of nearly 1,000 regulations was adopted by the company. Sixty-three of the rules were new. In anticipation of this the company's instruction car started June 1st upon a lecture tour covering 2,750 miles. To trainmen, conductors, engineers, flagmen, foremen, baggage men, section and bridge foremen and others, the company's rules governing movement of trains, general regulations, instructions as to signals and other details of railroad operation have been carefully explained.

These employees must show how well they understand their duties. Though they have only one textbook, the course of study is as extensive and the standards as exacting as those of any branch of a college curriculum. The student of railroading must know the regulations, for the whole object of the Union Pacific's education system is to secure a uniform understanding of the rules, thereby avoiding accidents and delays, besides laying the foundation for a better general railroad education.

The educational opportunities afforded by the railroad are in keeping with the strictness of the regulations made of its "students." The instruction car is a coach fitted with seats and having a raised platform at one end where charts and mechanical devices are displayed, together with signals and stereoscopic illustrations of interlocking plants, etc. The scenery surrounding the signals, the locomotives, and even the faces of the employees shown on the slides are familiar to the men and naturally attract and hold their interest more than would an ordinary lecture. The car has also been fitted with a miniature automatic electric block signal section of track, giving practical demonstration of signal operation.

In this novel schoolroom the instructor on rules and regulations of the transportation department imparts knowledge and holds examinations of those who cannot avail themselves of the regular board of examinations upon entering the service, or when seeking promotion.

With the board of examiners' train there is a car containing the air-brake equipment of a freight train in all its details and of working size. This equipment is also used for examination and instruction. Twice a year this car is fitted up with appliances for examination and tests of accuracy of vision and hearing. These tests are carried out by railroad surgeons and through the tests must pass all employees connected with the operation of trains.

It is not only subordinate employees who are included in the Union Pacific's educational activities. General and divisional officers not only meet among themselves at stated periods, but have in addition a general annual meeting for the exchange and adoption of ideas relative to improvement in operation. Sometimes the chief examiner on the instruction car will be assisted by a conductor or engineer of special capabilities, or by the trainmaster or assistant superintendent of the division upon which instruction is being given.

With the increasing complication of the science of railroading nearly every man on the rolls must be an expert, and it is not only by constant instruction on the part of the company and of study on the part of employees that they can keep up with their duties or prepare to go into higher grades of employment. The Union Pacific system is very much like that now in force in the navy. "Time was when naval promotion came about almost unthinkingly with length of service. Now the railroad man, like the naval officer, must show an exact knowledge of his intricate duties before he can secure advancement.

Almost An Entire Family Drowned at Once.—A most melancholy accident occurred last Friday a few miles south of Beloit. John Bodell, who rents the farm of S. K. Blodgett, and whose house was near the river bank, had a little girl who went to the river and was playing in the water. The mother seeing the child in danger ran to help her, but she too, got beyond her depth and called for help. This attracted the attention of Mr. Bodell, who ran to the spot and went in to the rescue of the imperiled ones but he stepped into the hole and all four were drowned.

Before The Footlights

"A Human Slave."
The play, after all, is a society drama, melodrama, or problem play, is merely a review of life from the dramatist's point of view. He, of course, exaggerates to suit the needs, or limitations, of his plot, or substratum from the real things in human nature. If it is so necessary, in "A Human Slave," Mr. Julian Powell, the author, has dealt with the stern events of a workman's life with a fidelity and skill which are both commendable. With a strong hand he pictures the misery and injustice a man who labors may be subjected to, always providing, of course, that his employer is a bad man. With the delicate touch of a skilled artist he illustrates the beautiful pathos—the love—the loyalty of friends which every man who enters his bread by the dignity of labor possesses. "A Human Slave," while a thrilling and sensational drama, touches a great moral lesson, and it is acted with care and discretion by one of the best companies ever organized to tour overnight stunts. It will be seen at the Myers theatre tonight.

"Why Girls Leave Home."
E. J. Carpenter's new offering, "Why Girls Leave Home" is a play which has created a great deal of interest throughout the East, and which is a strong and consistent story will be presented at the Myers theatre on Friday, Aug. 23. It tells of the folly of a young girl of respectable family connections, whose heart has been won by an unprincipled rascal, the anger of a brother who endeavors to show his sister the unwisdom of her choice, and who, in her true innocence of heart and believing the affection of her lover to be all that a young girl could desire, scorns her brother's advice, at which the brother in a fit of anger strikes her to insensibility; she is chloroformed by the villain, and smuggled to a rooming house in the city, and imprisoned there. She effects a sensational escape, and after a run of eight miles across the country, breathless, with her clothes torn, bleeding, exhausted, staggers into the corridor of the prison in time to save her brother's life, who in a fit of remorse, believing he has killed her, is about to commit suicide by stabbing himself with a dagger which the female villain has smuggled to his cell. The author is said to have handled his subject in a most delicate and masterly manner, and the story as presented, appeals to all to assist rather than "turn down" those who are attempting to do right.

"Quincy Adams Sawyer."
Although there have been more novels dealing with persons and circumstances "down east" than in any other part of the country, the author of "Quincy Adams Sawyer" succeeded in this intensely human story in striking a new note and introducing a tale that has already indicated its lasting success. When the play which has been made from this famous book is seen here at the opera house it will

PAST TRANSACTIONS.

Secretary Taft, in his speech, declared that it is not true that the President proposes to "rip up past transactions," when, by reason of the injury to innocent purchasers, such a course would do more injustice than good.

It would be valuable if Secretary Taft would elaborate this idea in some future speech, so as to explain exactly what is meant by "past transactions," and tell exactly the point where the innocent purchasers come in.

Perhaps some clear definition of the administration's policy along this line might be the basis for restoring some degree of confidence to the security market. For instance, the administration might announce that by past transactions is meant such transactions as preceded a certain date, as, let us say, the first of January, 1906, and that prosecutions would be made only by offenses against the law committed since that date and fines imposed only for such offenses.

Undoubtedly a good many people would object to having a rule of limitation established with so recent a date, but it is well worth considering. Such a rule would, on the whole, work well both for restoring a square deal in business and for protecting investors against confiscatory fines for offenses committed during the long series of years when the whole business of the country was practically conducted upon a lower level of ethical conduct.

REPUTATED INTERVIEWS.

No newspaper and no native, energetic newspaper man has ever yet escaped the hardship of the reputed interview. Some of our public men are sometimes not above denying interviews when they find that what they have said has not had the desired effect upon the country.

To have an announcement spread all over the country that an interview had been repudiated, when in fact the man who gave the interview had not actually repudiated it, is an added hardship to a newspaper. The New York World therefore is to be congratulated upon having obtained an absolute repudiation of a press dispatch declaring that John D. Rockefeller had repudiated his interview with the World. That Rockefeller interview now stands.

THE MEANEST MAN.

The meanest man has been found in Pittsburgh. He had a two-year-old baby arrested for tearing up a piece of red six by eighteen inches. Pittsburgh has been noted for many freaks, but this is the latest, the meanest man.

A new use has been discovered for the potato. A Chicago woman laughed at her husband's jokes and swallowed a hatpin. Now she is being fed a diet of potatoes so that the hatpin will become imbedded in the potato and will do her no internal injury.

A Milwaukee man is pretty nearly as mean as the Pittsburgh man who had a child arrested for tearing up his coat. He has his penniless wife arrested so she can be safe while he sues her for a divorce.

PRESS COMMENT.

Some Solace in This. Sheboygan Journal: President Small is trying to shut off all cable service to Europe. We can stand it if the Europeans can.

Our Show-Rags of Snobbery. Chicago Record-Herald: Prince William of Sweden is busy enjoying the delightful democracy which does not exist in this country when a son of royalty happens to be present.

Gigantic New Trust. Exchange: The new print paper trust will have a capitalization of $118,000,000. When the wood pulp supply gets short the mills can grind up their stock certificates.

Journal Humbles the Mighty. Oshkosh Northwestern: The Milwaukee Journal insists on referring to it as "Wall-street." Probably this is meant to indicate the relative shrinkage of importance of this great financial center.

A Rather Pernicious Suggestion. Fond du Lac Reporter: Some men have better sense when they are drunk than when they are sober. For instance, the man who asked to be black listed at the saloons was intoxicated when he made the request.

Joke is to be Probed. Green Bay Gazette: Harriman says he was joking in the interview which quoted him as saying he was desirous of owning the country's railroads. The government realizes he was joking and proposes to see the point.

The Day of the Spud. Chicago Inter Ocean: With denatured alcohol being, so to speak, from every pore, the American potato will be even a greater force than it has been. Evidently the time is coming when spuds will indeed be trumps.

Poetic Justice. Rockford Register-Gazette: Ashes from the clear which a Philadelphia man was smoking set fire to his collied collar and he nearly burned to death. But a man who wears a collied collar has got something coming to him.

Since We All Have 'Em. Oshkosh Northwestern: The investigations into the mental condition of Mrs. Eddy seem to pretty well establish the fact that she is not exactly of sound mind, although it still remains to be determined whether she is legally insane. In other words, even the courts are inclined to differentiate between so-called mental delusions and downright insanity, and doubtless this is a good thing for the great majority of people.

Conservative—Almost Reasonable. Racine Journal: Milwaukee is chirpy over the announced estimate of population of 365,000 per directory figures, and Chicago also perks up with an estimate of 2,367,000 from same sources. Honestly, these estimates are unusually modest.

The Strike a Blessing! Sheboygan Journal: As the chief complaint about the American industry situation is that we were moving too fast, the telegraphers' strike ought to prove a wholesome check. It's surprising how many things prove to be dispensable when you can't get them.

No Particular Benefit to Poe. Milwaukee Sentinel: Edmund Clarence Steadman pleads earnestly for the selection of Poe's name at the next election of the Hall of Fame. A Poe tablet would add some needed distinction to that queer Valhalla; but we fail to see how it would enhance or certify Poe's name.

Holy Men Didn't Miss Much. Los Angeles Herald: Now the clergymen of Coventry who left the city during the Lady Godiva madness have returned to their pulpits and resumed their struggle with their crying flocks. Judging from the number of yards of gauze mentioned in eulogiums the holy men didn't miss much.

Mr. Bryan Inserts an "Ad." St. Louis—Several Democratic policies belonging exclusively to Mr. Two parties, on wearing eyeglasses, and the other with a body as big as Palsgraf, are suspected. Any one giving information leading to recovery of the property will be rewarded. Address W. J. L. Lincoln, Nebraska.

Getting Even on the Freight. Appleton Post: Perhaps the raising of the minimum freight rate for small packages from 25 cents to 40 cents, which has just gone into effect on Wisconsin railroads, will help some in offsetting the lower passenger fares. The majority of people do not travel many miles a year on the railroads, but they are paying the freight every day upon most of the things they have to buy.

Mrs. Potter Palmer's Disappointment. Superior Telegram: Mrs. Potter Palmer of Chicago is said to have expended lately more than $100,000 in London on entertainments to which she expected the king would accept an invitation and attend. She had two or three big functions, but the king failed to attend any of them. She is reported to be angry but willing to spend $100,000 more if she can only have the king present once. And this seems to be Mrs. Potter Palmer's idea of making the world better and happier. To people of more refined ideas it appears coarse and barbaric.

Poor Business. Milwaukee News: The La Crosse Tribune informs us that the police in that city confess that they dare not enforce the law limiting the speed of automobiles for fear that the owners of the automobiles will obtain their discharge from the force. We have heard a great deal of the class war in the United States—of the privileged classes and impudent wealth—but here we have the first manifestation of the supremacy of the law in the face of the automobile class. Is government of, for and by the people to perish from the earth in the face of the insolent chauffeur and the pure-proud owners of gasoline buggies?

State Democratic Organ Applauds. Milwaukee Journal: Mr. Taft's speech will appeal to the good sense of the great majority. He is progressive, but at the same time truly conservative. He is radical, but cautious. He is an individualist, but not an extremist. In short, he represents a great body of sane, progressive, patriotic citizens who are largely the strength and hope of the nation. Mr. Taft's platform is a good platform. It ought to strengthen him as a candidate for the republican nomination. It certainly makes his strength stand out. In contrast to Mr. Bryan's weakness, a fact which Mr. Taft emphasized by his frequent references to the Nebraska orator. There will be, or should be, no more talk that Secretary Taft has no convictions of his own.

No Wavering of Purpose. Wall Street Journal: Except in so far as any hope may be held out in Secretary Taft's declaration that the President "does not propose to rip open past transactions," there is nothing in his speech to indicate any wavering whatever in the administration's policy toward the corporations. The administration's answer to the stock market decline, as that answer is given by Secretary Taft, who of course represents the administration, is clear, open and unqualified declaration of its intention to carry out its policy to its necessary and inevitable accomplishment.

It is therefore war to the knife between the administration and those financial interests which the administration believes are in antagonism to law and the public welfare.

Hoard on the Next President. Marlboro Eagle-Star: Former Gov. Hoard is regarded as a good political prophet, from the fact that he has been on the winning side in every state campaign for a good many years, and he keeps closely in touch with the farmers in the state.

The former executive was in the city Saturday and to a newspaper correspondent he stated that he believed that Senator La Follette would get the state endorsement for the presidency but would not get the nomination at the national convention.

"I believe," he said, "that the trend of opinion in the state is in favor of sending a state delegation for Senator La Follette and that there will be little opposition to that plan. But that will end it. There is not the slightest hope of the senator getting the nomination and even his strongest admirers really expect nothing more, even though they may pretend to. I do not think the senator himself expects to get the nomination next year. I do not think the location of the next republican convention will affect the chances for the Wisconsin senator's nomination."

The statement is important as showing the opinion of the men who are

BEN-HUR FLOUR

Buy a sack of Ben Hur Flour and see how much longer it lasts than the flour you have been using. Then figure out how many sacks less Ben Hur would be required to supply your family for a year and you will see what Ben Hur Flour will bring to your home—Light Bread which keeps fresh and moist for a long period, Dainty Rolls that you never saw the equal of before, and the Choicest Cake and Pies are the results of its use. A poor cook does better with Ben Hur than with any other flour. A good cook who has worked hard to make light Bread and tempting dainties from flour which did not have the goodness in it, will be delighted with the magical results obtained by Ben Hur.

When we buy wheat to make Ben Hur Flour we select the choicest grain grown in the great Northwest. Before this wheat is crushed it is thoroughly washed by special machinery. After it is made into flour it is handled and packed in inspected cars by intelligent men of life-long experience, and every barrel is tested before it leaves our mills. All this because we want every pound of Ben Hur Flour to increase our reputation for quality and economy. Ben Hur Flour costs you no more than the inferior kind. If it isn't better you need not buy it again.

POLITICS AND POLITICIANS

The democrats of New Jersey have decided to hold their state convention on Sept. 18 at Trenton.

The Roosevelt third term propaganda has been given a boost by Governor Cummins of Iowa, who declares that President Roosevelt is the only logical candidate to succeed himself at the White House.

In seventy-five years no man has been elected governor of Iowa who was born in the state. And of the six judges of the supreme court at the present time, not one is Iowa born.

Mortimer F. Stillwell, the republican nominee for state treasurer of Oklahoma, has been closely identified with New Jersey oil interests, and was receiver for the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company several years ago. In that capacity he handled a large sum of money that was ever before handled by a receiver in Oklahoma.

Among the democratic spellbinders who are to take the stump for the democratic ticket in Oklahoma, this fall are Congressman Champ Clark of Missouri, William J. Bryan of Nebraska, Senator Bob Taylor of Tennessee, Henry T. Rainey of Illinois and Charles A. Towne, formerly member of congress from Minnesota and later from New York.

JURY OF TWELVE TRYING THE "DON"

STATE'S BIG EXHIBIT OF PLUNDER IS IDENTIFIED.

BY EVANSVILLE CITIZENS

Officers Tell of the Chase and Walter Judovino Outlines Story of the Theft of His Trunk from Bed-Post.

Before a jury composed of T. F. Madden, John Day, August Bugge, Jr., Fred Viney, Philip Doherty, James Heffernan, John Kohler, George W. Konning, Elmer Skelly, James Buchanan, T. J. McKelvie, and E. A. Hardy, the trial of Thomas Cataran, or Catarin, the Spauldard or Mexican charged with burglary, was commenced this morning in municipal court. District Attorney J. L. Fisher, represented the state and attorney William Rucker, Jr., appointed to defend the prisoner, contested the introduction of all doubtful evidence against his client.

Walter Judovino of Evansville was the first witness called to the stand. He told about hanging his trunk from the bed-post on the night of August 4 and of waking up in the morning to find it missing. According to his testimony, the mystery was finally cleared up by the discovery of the trunk in the room of a hotel, where empty pockets and an open window told the rest of the story of a night entrance by some prowler of burglarious disposition. $18.50 in money, a railroad ticket from Mt. Hope to Blue Mounds, a $25 certificate of deposit, a book of stamps, and the purse and pocket-book in which these articles were carried, were among the booty and Mr. Judovino was able to identify most of them in the state's large exhibit of jewelry, knickknacks, and such.

Deputy Sheriff Fred W. Gillman of Evansville told the story of the pursuit on the early morning of the fifth which led him, E. H. Morrison, a livorist, Chief of Police Cal Broughton, and others some miles north of Brookfield, Morrison and a youth from Brookfield were traveling along a wagon-road with a team of horses while Officer Gillman moved along the railroad track which paralleled the road, at a distance of about a mile. While he was talking with a gang of section men he glanced very across the fields and saw Morrison turn his back around and commenced to move back over the route he had traversed. That was his signal to close in on the intervening countryside. He skirted the north side which bordered on a heavy wood and when he heard shouts came out on the road where he found Morrison and his companion adding in the fight with the prisoner, Cataran. He took the latter out of the carriage and searched him, discovering the articles shown in the state's exhibit. A telephone message from a Mrs. Robinson whom the officer had interviewed earlier in the morning while passing along the railroad track, had furnished the only clue upon which the party was working.

Mr. Morrison next took the stand and told about seeing a suspicious-looking character walking along the highway about 160 yards in front of his carriage. When he put the whip to his horses and was galloping on him, the fellow suddenly turned into a large cornfield. His companion ran ahead to head off the quarry while he, Morrison, led the horses and joined in quick pursuit from the point where Cataran entered the field. His only weapon was Officer Gillman's electric flashlight and when he got near enough and commanded the Spauldard to halt, at the same time leveling the gleam-tube, the latter only ran the faster. Finding he was losing in the light he began to shout and the Brooklyn boy closed in upon the fugitive and nabbed him.

Chief of Police Cal Broughton was the state's last witness. He told about the thefts as reported to him and his part in the pursuit. The party separated at Brookfield. Officer Broughton working independently of the rest of the men. The state rested and the defense was to begin this afternoon at two o'clock. Throughout the morning the prisoner sat with downcast eyes, apparently paying no attention to the proceedings. The interpreter, Hollister Figueroa of Detroit, sat by his side and kept close track of the trial so that he would be able to tell the prisoner what had transpired during the noon hour.

Through the interpreter, counsel for the defense asked his client if he cared to go on the stand and testify in his own behalf. The prisoner replied without hesitation that he did not care to do so. There were no other witnesses for him and the evidence was closed. District Attorney Fisher in his opening argument placed before the jury the strong chain of evidence which the state had forged, admitting, he claimed, of no conclusion other than the guilt of the prisoner.

Attorney Rucker, however, insisted that nothing had been introduced to show that Cataran was over in Evansville. No one had seen him there and the mere possession of stolen goods was not convincing evidence that the man had entered Judovino's house—far from it. Even if it were admitted for the sake of argument that the man was guilty of receiving stolen goods, this was a lesser crime and the jury had no right to use it as a basis for convicting him of a greater one, i. e., housebreaking and burglary. Counsel drew a harrowing picture of the poor, helpless Spauldard, among strangers in a strange land, knowing nothing of the customs of its courts—supposing probably that they were just the same as in his own country where a man was supposed to be guilty until proven innocent. No wonder he would not go on the stand. "Why, he isn't sure," said Attorney Rucker impressively, "that I'm not throwing him down. He thinks I'm only one of the rest of the bunch that's knocking him and didn't want to talk with me through the interpreter. (Laughter and a command of "order" from the bench.) His failure to go on the stand to testify in his own behalf cannot, as you all know, be used as a presumption against him." The district attorney made his concluding plea and Judge Fitch charged the jury shortly before four o'clock.

Several hundred are at Crystal Springs park today enjoying the annual picnic of the Janesville grocers. The day was inaugurated by a parade on the streets of the city this morning. J. P. Bringing up the rear was a contingent of small boys bearing the heavy rope that was used for a tug of war between the grocers of the east and west side. The tug of war was won by the Fourth avenue dock and from there the merry-makers departed on the steamer Columbus. The first boat was crowded to capacity and the vessel carried large throngs all day long.

WILL RAISE FRUIT TREES FOR MARKET

Elmer Ellsworth Has Secured Forty Acres of Land Near Blind Institute for a Nursery.

Forty acres of fertile land, of the R. E. Kennedy farm south of the Blind Institute, have been leased for two years by Elmer Ellsworth of Milwaukee, who will convert the land into a nursery farm. Mr. Ellsworth has been in the city for the past few weeks arranging the lease of the land and preparing to have some of his shrubbery shipped here. Twenty-five acres of the land will be devoted to the nursery proper. Following is the enumeration of some of the shrubbery that will be planted, part this fall and the remainder this spring: 1,000 apple, cherry and plum trees, 50,000 strawberry plants, 20,000 asparagus plants, and 20,000 grape vines. Mr. Ellsworth is said to be one of the best horticulturists in this section of the country and the project should prove a success.

RAILWAY KEY MEN TO HELP STRIKERS

THEIR FIRST SUBSCRIPTION WILL BE AT LEAST $100,000.

CAN LAST UNTIL DEC.

Small Says They Have Enough Money
At Present—Many Railroad
Positions Will Be Open Soon.

Chicago, Aug. 22.—President Sylvester J. Small of the Commercial Telegraphers' union received assurance from President H. B. Perham of the Order of Railway Telegraphers' union Wednesday that the financial support of the railroad men had already been asked.

President Perham Tuesday addressed a letter to the members of the union requesting a voluntary subscription to aid the commercial men now on strike. He told President Small that the first request for assistance would yield at least $100,000.

Can Last Until Dec. 1.

The strike leader at noon Wednesday declared that he and his forces on strike were able to hold out until Dec. 1, without further financial assistance. Local officers of the union received requests from several railroads asking for experienced operators. Many of the telegraphers have been offered clerical positions.

Telegrams and letters from brokers in all parts of the country are coming to the union headquarters commending their action in securing contracts with the broker firms and preserving the brokers' leased wire system.

Many Railway Positions Open.

Twice as many railway telegraph positions as there are striking telegraphers must be filled before Jan. 1, according to estimates made by officials of the Commercial Telegraphers' union. The estimates are based upon a new interstate commerce law going into effect at the beginning of 1908 under which the time on duty of railway telegraphers is shortened to a maximum of nine hours a day.

This law, it is generally conceded, will necessitate an increase of from 30 to 40 per cent. in the force of railway telegraphers, without any large number of men, except commercial telegraphers, now available to fill the new positions.

Force of 25,000 Men Needed.

A force of 25,000 men will be required to meet the new regulations, according to an estimate made by H. P. Shrimpton, chief clerk in the general offices of the commercial telegraphers. There are at present about 12,000 men on a strike, Mr. Shrimpton said, a considerable percentage of these being men who at one time or another have seen railway service and are therefore specially qualified for it.

"There are more positions now open for railway telegraphers than can be filled," he added. "The men prefer to wait the outcome of the strike."

Companies Ask for Troops.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Representatives of the telegraph companies called upon Gen. Bell, chief of staff, at the war department in relation to an attack upon the nonunion telegraph operators at the relay point at Ashford, Ariz.

The company representatives desire the national government to provide a military guard at that point to protect the operators against another attack. Gen. Bell pointed out that under the constitutional limitations he could not respond to any such direct appeal from the companies. Their recourse was, he informed them, to apply to the governor of the territory and if he decided that troops were necessary it would be his duty to call upon President Roosevelt, who, Gen. Bell said, without doubt would honor the request.

May Not Have Been Strikers.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 22.—Reports from Ashford, Ariz., where the Postal telegraph office was attacked by an armed mob Monday night, say that there has been no renewal of the trouble. Superintendent Lewis of the Postal company, said he did not believe striking operators had anything to do with this trouble. He thinks that local "bad men" were responsible for the attack.

Railroad Oust Telegraphers.

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 22.—Several members of the Order of Railway Telegraphers have been discharged by the Vanderbilt railroad for refusing to handle commercial messages. Nonunion men have been put in their places.

Moors in Miners Strike.

Tiencen, Algeria, Aug. 22.—One thousand Moors, who are employed in the iron mine near here, went on strike Wednesday and paraded through the streets. They threatened the European residents here. The reason for the agitation among them is not known, but it is probably traceable to the receipt of information of the occurrences in Morocco. The mayor of Tiencen has asked the military authorities to distribute arms to the population in order that they may defend themselves against the Moors.

Time Call for Key West.

Washington, Aug. 22.—The navy department has arranged to place a time ball upon a tall mast at the naval station at the Key West naval yard, connected with the naval observatory in this city, for the benefit of the great number of ships that pass through the Florida straits.

William R. Hearst has accepted an invitation to be one of the orators at the Labor day celebration at the Jamestown exposition next month.

CONDENSED SPECIALS.

Postmaster McElroy, of the national house of representatives, died at Delaware, O.

T. F. Shay, a prominent attorney of Cincinnati, O., died in the rooms of his stenographer, Mrs. Ada Taylor, in that city.

Claude Boyd, aged 21, was shot and, it is thought, fatally injured at Stoy, Ill., by Frank Myers, a professional gambler, in a quarrel over a card game.

A special train of ten Pullmans arrived in Colorado Springs, Col., bringing 250 members of the Fifteenth Pennsylvania volunteer cavalry, to be the guests of Gen. William J. Palmer.

John Goldie, the famous steeplejack, fell from the top of the Townsend chimney, in Glasgow, which is 448 feet high and the highest in the world. His body was mutilated beyond recognition.

Clarence Haines, formerly of Columbus, O., went to his wife's sitting-room in Washington Courthouse, shot her to death and then, turning the weapon on himself inflicted a mortal wound.

Syracuse (N. Y.) police have in custody Julius F. Eller, who is wanted at Alamosa, Col., on a charge of grand larceny in stealing from the Rio Grande railroad $2,000 in money orders and coupons.

Announcement is made in New York that almost all the diamonds belonging to the estate of the late Mrs. Jane L. Stanford, widow of Leland Stanford, have been quietly disposed of and the proceeds are to be devoted to the Leland Stanford, Jr. university.

Leaving a note saying that she would rather face death than meet her husband's wrath when he learned that she had misappropriated $500 of funds of St. John's Evangelical Lutheran church, Mrs. Andrew Goetz left her home in West New York and has not been heard from since.

MORE TROUBLE IN 'FRISCO.

New Police Commissioners Named—Old Ones Resist Removal.

San Francisco, Aug. 22.—Mayor Taylor Wednesday appointed as police commissioners Joseph A. Leggett, attorney and single tax advocate; Charles A. Swelger, attorney; and Hugo D. Kohl, retired merchant, to fill the vacancies created Tuesday by the removals of Commissioners Thomas F. Finn, A. H. Wallen and John L. Moore on charges of misconduct in neglecting and refusing to remove Chief of Police Dinnin for gross incompetency in office. The three appointees went at once to the office of the county clerk to be sworn in.

A. D. Cutler, vice president of the Metropolitan Trust company, will be appointed to the fourth vacancy in the board as soon as created by the removal of William R. Hargerty, who thus far has evaded service of notification of ouster. It is reported Hargerty intends to leave for the east. Finn, Wallen and Moore "stand pat" on their declaration that they will recognize no power of removal other than the courts, and that they and Chief Dinnin will resist with force any attempt to dislodge them and take possession of the board's records.

Armor for New Battleships.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Contracts were signed at the navy department Wednesday with the Bethlehem and Carnegie steel companies for the delivery of 7,217 tons of steel armor plates and appurtenances for the two new battleships, of 20,000 tons each, of the Delaware class, to be constructed, respectively by the Newport Shipbuilding company and the Fore River Shipbuilding company.

Insurance Men in Session.

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 22.—The eighteenth annual convention of the American Insurance Underwriters' association opened here Wednesday. President Frank E. Mullin opened the proceedings with an address. The New York state insurance law was generally condemned in a number of the papers read. This law, remarked President Mullin, practically said to the agent: "All you who enter here leave hope for future behind."

Justice for Wives.

A bill to give married women the control of their own earnings in France has reached the stage of the second reading. As things are now, if a married woman earns a dollar by taking in washing, or thousands of dollars by writing a successful novel, every cent of it belongs to her husband. If she secures the money and puts it in the bank, she cannot draw it out without his written consent, but he can draw it out without hers and spend it as he pleases. For 14 years women have been working to get this law changed.

Royal Spats.

We read in an ancient chronicle that when a letter not altogether courteous was sent to the emperor of Japan by the emperor of China, the emperor of the land where the sun rises addressed himself to the emperor of the land where the sun sets. On another occasion, when the Chinese emperor had the audacity to demand the submission of Japan, that spirited country chopped off the heads of the luckless ambassadors!

Mount McKinley.

In mountain climbing the world over the climber usually arrives fresh and unfatigued at the base of the peak he wishes to storm, and as a rule begins his ascent at a high altitude. On Mount McKinley, as described by a writer in Outlook, it is the opposite. There are 25 miles of rugged foothills and glaciers to be crossed—with heavy packs—before the base of the mountain is reached, and then the climber is confronted by 13,000 feet of rock and ice.

ROMANCE CLOSES IN DOUBLE CRIME

NEW YORK MAN MURDERS HIS WIFE AND KILLS HIMSELF.

TRAGEDY AFTER QUARREL

Julius Teich Bought Girl Over Two Continents, Found and Married
Her, Only to Slay Her in Fit of Anger.

New York, Aug. 22.—After a search that lasted five years and covered 15,000 miles on two continents, Julius Teich found the girl he loved and persuaded her to marry him, only to kill her in a fit of anger after two months of wedded life and then, repentant, to take his own life.

Plato shot Wednesday aroused the occupants of the apartment house in West One Hundred Twenty-sixth street where Teich and his bride lived, and when the police, who were hastily summoned, broke into the flat they found both Teich and his wife unconscious. Both died within a few minutes.

Romance Begun in Germany.

Emily Horter lived in Germany with her parents when she first met Teich, who was a silk weaver. Teich fell in love with the girl and wanted her to marry him. But he was possessed of a violent temper and Emily feared him. Her parents also objected to the marriage. But Teich was insistent so the girl left Germany secretly to escape him and came to America.

This was five years ago. For two years Teich searched Germany for her but failed to find her. Then her parents admitted to him that she was in America but refused to tell him where. Nothing daunted, the young man came to America and renewed his search. He hunted New York for months but failed to find her. Then he went to Minneapolis, St. Louis, Philadelphia and Savannah where he thought the girl had friends, but without result.

Found Emily in New York.

He returned to New York a few months ago and accidentally met Emily on the street. She was living here with an aunt and, in spite of her aunt's objection, Emily finally consented to marry the man who had been so faithful in his search for her. They were married two months ago.

Neighbors in the apartment house say that there was a quarrel in the Teich apartment Wednesday morning because Emily refused to get up to partake of the breakfast Julius had prepared. There were sharp words and a pistol shot. Then pleading words for forgiveness from Julius, followed by another shot. Then the police broke in, the door and hurried the unconscious man and woman to a hospital, where both died.

WORRIED BY CENTRAL AMERICA.

Washington Gets Conflicting Reports of Renewed Hostilities There.

Washington, Aug. 22.—Conflicting reports, largely unofficial, continue to reach officials here of a renewed outbreak of hostilities in Central America. According to reports from naval officers the situation there appears to be quiet. But there is an undercurrent of feeling of instability attributed mainly to the possibility of a renewed attack by Nicaragua on Salvador.

While the reports are discredited here, the opinion of those who have been on the ground is that the relations between the two countries are still grave. Salvador is smarting under the action of the Nicaraguans in sending an expedition against it several months ago when the Montombo landed at Acajutla and did more or less damage to Salvadoran interests. Directions will be given to commanders of American vessels to report promptly any unusual happenings and to safeguard American interests. Both the cruiser Milwaukee and the gunboat Yorktown are now in Central American waters on the Pacific side, while the Duquesne is on the Atlantic side.

SCORES AT CAMP PERRY.

Results of First Stage in the President's Rifle Match.

Camp Perry, O., Aug. 22.—In the first stage of the National Rifle association's president match, finished Wednesday afternoon, there were 320 contestants. The second long distance range will be shot Thursday.

The organizations that finished at the top of the list Wednesday were the United States navy, with nine men; Ohio, five men; Massachusetts, five men; Washington, five men; marine corps, four men; the cavalry and Illinois, three men each; District of Columbia and New Jersey, two men each, and Pennsylvania, one man. The highest individual score was made by S. E. Jones, of Illinois, who scored 177.

Metal Polishers Want More Pay.

Cincinnati, Aug. 22.—At the national convention Wednesday of Union Metal Polishers & Brass Workers a resolution was introduced which calls for an increase of 20 per cent. in wages for the members of the union and an eight-hour day.

Three Railroads Accused.

St. Louis, Aug. 22.—J. C. Lincoln, commissioner of the Merchants' Exchange traffic bureau, Wednesday filed a complaint with the interstate commerce commission against the Missouri Pacific, the Rock Island and the Burlington, charging that these lines discriminate against St. Louis in the rates on grain from points in Kansas and Nebraska.

PAYMASTER BOLDLY ROBBED

TWO HIGHWAYMEN SHOOT HIM
AND TAKE $5,000.

One is Captured After Chase and Satchel with Money is Found in Open Field.

Philadelphia, Aug. 22.—William H. Hicks, paymaster for the Schuylkill & Cheltenham company, textile machinists in the northwestern section of the city, was held up and robbed of $5,000 within a short distance of the machine shops Wednesday by two highwaymen, one of whom shot him in the right arm.

Hicks, accompanied by Walter P. McDonald, purchasing agent for the company, was on his way to the shop with a satchel containing the $5,000 which was to be used in making up the pay envelopes of the employees when he was waylaid. It is charged, by John Posicki, a former employee of the company, and a companion. The highwaymen held pistols at the heads of Hicks and McDonald and demanded the satchel containing the money. Hicks carried a revolver, which he drew, when one of the thieves grabbed the satchel and fled at Hicks. The bullet struck Hicks in the right arm, compelling him to drop his revolver. The robbers fled and McDonald picked up Hicks' pistol and began shooting at them.

The shooting attracted a crowd and hands from several mills in the neighborhood chased Posicki. He jumped on a trolley car and, holding his revolver at the motorman's head, commanded him to run the car as fast as he could, but the pursuers pulled the trolley pole from the wire and stopped the car and the fugitive was caught. Later Anton Mojekski was arrested at Posicki's home on suspicion of being one of the highwaymen. The stolen satchel was found lying on one of the open lots across which the highwaymen fled. Hicks was not seriously hurt.

FENDER WAR IN LOS ANGELES.

Manager and Car Men Fined—Many Arrests Are Made.

Los Angeles, Cal., Aug. 22.—Traffic Manager McMillan, of the Huntington electric lines of this city, was fined $200, or 300 days in jail Wednesday for operating cars without proper fenders. The motorman and conductor of the car were also fined $100 or 100 days in jail.

An appeal was taken and immediately following this a deputy district attorney with a squad of police commenced arresting motemen and conductors of cars not properly equipped with fenders. Eight men were arrested and immediately admitted to bail. The district attorney announced that he would continue to make arrests daily and would tie up all the interurban lines of the Huntington system unless the fender ordinance is obeyed.

The fight between Huntington and the city is due to the municipality's seeking to compel the use of a certain fender.

Railroad Commissioner Ousted.

Athens, Ga., Aug. 22.—Gov. Hoke Smith Wednesday issued an order to take effect immediately suspending from office Railroad Commissioner Joseph M. Brown and appointing in his place S. G. McLendon. The order gives no reason for the suspension, but cites simply the section of the code which confers on the governor the authority to suspend a commissioner who fails to meet the demands of the office.

Frisco Car Strike to End.

Two Shot in Pistol Fight.

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 22.—In a pistol fight in Floyd county Palmer Sautsberry and James Stumbo were shot and probably mortally wounded. The fight was a three cornered affair, with Stumbo on one side and Palmer Sautsberry and his brother, Ballard Sautsberry on the other. Ballard Sautsberry escaped after the shooting.

It is stated that a primary law and a fight upon the taxation act enacted by the last legislature are to be features of the coming democratic state campaign in Kansas.

MR. E. BURNHAM, Chicago, Ill.
Dear Sir—After having used your Hair Greaser for about six months, I can truthfully say it is the best hair restorer that I know of. It has stopped the falling out and the bald spot is entirely covered with a thick, natural growth. I am more than pleased with the result. A physician friend who examined my head said hair could not be restored on the bald spot, and the only remedy was to wear a wig. An recommending your tonic to all my friends and acquaintances, and I sincerely wish you the success you and your wonderful discovery deserve. Yours truly,

CHAPTER IX.

THE PRISON ON THE WALL.

"O'NEILL" said the admiral, in much bewilderment. "Edward, this is your friend the Marquis de Richemont."

"Edward, do not speak," cried Lady Elizabeth distractedly.

"Ah, Elizabeth, my love and duty to you, but not speak? About what, pray? What mean you?"

"Is this gentleman, the Marquis de Richemont, your friend or not, sir? Cease this display, Elizabeth. I will have an explanation," demanded the now thoroughly aroused admiral.

"My friend? Quite so," said Major Coventry, smiling. "Though I was ignorant that he was a marquis, he is none the less welcome. I am exceedingly glad to see him again. You, too, I presume, Elizabeth?"

"Glad even as you are," she replied deliberately, now seeing that further comment was useless.

"That you called him O'Neill," continued the admiral.

"That is his name, sir," said O'Neill calmly, recognizing the uselessness of further evasion. "I am one of the Irish O'Neills, formerly of County Clare, now in the service of the king of France." He could not have said it more proudly had he been the king himself.

"The last time I saw you were on the Ranger, that American Continental ship," continued Coventry.

"As a prisoner, sir," cried the admiral.

"As an officer, my lord," answered the Irishman.

"What, sir? And now you are?"

"Second lieutenant of the American Continental ship Don Homme Richard, Captain John Paul Jones, at your service," said the dauntless reply.

"Good God!" said the admiral. "Is it possible? And you, Elizabeth—you have deceived me also. You knew this man?"

"Yes, sir; but not as the Marquis de Richemont."

"You have met this gentleman before?"

"Yes, sir."

"Where, may I ask, and when?"

"About a year and a half since, sir. You remember when the Madison was wrecked? He saved me from death then, and after Captain Jones put me ashore, you know?"

"He spared my life, too, as well, sir, at that time," said Coventry; "they both did."

"You seem to be a good hand at saving lives, Lieutenant O'Neill, marquis de Richemont. Perhaps you can think now of some way of saving your own," remarked the admiral sarcastically.

"It is useless to me now, my lord, and not worth the saving," answered the young man calmly.

"But I would not have you put the approaching nuptials of your son and ward by an execution. Let me at least live until the wedding. I shall be more willing to die then," he added softly.

"You came here for what purpose?" continued the admiral, disregarding the latter words of the young man as utterly irrelevant.

"To find out the number and force and disposition of the ships in the harbor."

"At the instance of?"

"Captain Jones, sir."

"The murdering pirate?"

"I have resented such language and proved its falsity upon the person of your son, sir," burst out O'Neill stepping forward, his hand upon his sword. "Shall I impose the same lesson on the father?"

"You are a prisoner, sir," replied the admiral imperturbably, "and are here at my pleasure to resign, not to give."

"I will consider the matter further and consult with you again. Meanwhile if you will give me your parole I will allow you the freedom of the castle."

"Parole? The given, sir. Faith, I hardly think you could drive me away."

"That's well," returned the admiral. "Sergeant, call my steward and have him assign chambers to the Marquis de Richemont. Coventry, I presume you will place your wardrobe at his disposal in case he needs anything. Now the marquis will doubtless wish to retire. We will see him in the morning. Come, Elizabeth. Good night, sir. The sergeant will attend you."

"Lord Westbrooke, I thank you, Major Coventry, your servant. Lady Elizabeth, I wish you joy on your wedding. Good night," replied the young man, bowing to them all in succession.

As the admiral and the others left the room, the young lieutenant sank down on his chair and put his head upon his hands upon the table. The old sergeant, who had seen it all, watched him a moment in silence.

Walking up to him finally and laying his hands on his shoulder with the familiarity of a privileged character he said:

"Come now, sir, be a soldier."

"You can give no worse advice than that to a soldier, my friend," replied O'Neill, rising and smiling in spite of his misery. "Lead on; I will follow," he added.

As they passed down the great hall the eyes of the wretched lieutenant fell upon a large picture hanging rather low on the wall in a far corner above a dark near the doorway. It was the portrait of a beautiful woman in the fashion of some fifty years back. She was seated in a great carved oak chair, the counterpart of and evidently painted from one sitting beneath it. In face and features the portrait was a striking likeness of Lady Elizabeth Howard. The skill of the painter had been so great, the colors had been so nicely chosen, so delicately laid on, that in the flickering uncertain candle-light, which left this part of the room in a rather deep shadow, the picture actually seemed to breathe. O'Neill stopped as if petrified.

"Come along, sir," said the sergeant gruffly.

"A moment, if you please, my friend—a moment. What sort of a man are you?"

"My friend, the Marquis de Richemont, you would be childless to-day. Had it not been for the courage of this gentleman, Lady Elizabeth here?"

"Oh, sir," cried Elizabeth impulsively, "they are men of honor. I pray you, release this officer and let him go free. Nay, never shake your head; I ask it as a wedding gift to me, sir."

"My liberty your wedding gift, mademoiselle? Never!" interrupted O'Neill firmly.

"May no more, either of you," said the admiral decisively. "You, sir, came here as an enemy, a spy."

"Not so, sir; I came here in the uniform of a French officer."

"But that is not the uniform of the flag under which you now serve," continued the admiral coolly. "You may secure some consideration, however, at my hands as representing his majesty the king. God bless him! by revealing the circumstances and plans and the ultimate purpose of your rebellious captain."

"Clearly an impossible proposition," said O'Neill, bowing.

"That, stop!" said the admiral. "Now that I recall it, you gave me your word of honor that you came here to see this lady."

"And that is true, sir. I might have escaped to my ship with ease, in possession of the information I desired to get, but I came up to the castle to see her."

"A most foolish excursion, sir, and why, pray?"

"Because I love her," said O'Neill calmly.

"What?" cried Coventry, in great surprise and dismay. "Did you know this, Elizabeth?"

"Is a woman ever ignorant of the feelings she excites in a lover's breast, sir?" O'Neill answered for her.

"And have you—did you?" continued Coventry, looking still at Elizabeth.

"Lady Elizabeth has done nothing, sir. No word of affection has ever crossed her lips to me at least," again replied O'Neill. "She would not even wait."

"Oh, but she did," interrupted Coventry jealously. "A year—six months—she tried to postpone her wedding for six months more. I begin to understand."

"Fence, Edward!" said Elizabeth, trembling violently. "The Marquis de Richemont is—nothing to me—can never be anything to me, that is. The wedding shall proceed at the appointed date. I gave you my word. It was the wish of my mother, the wish of the admiral, your wish."

"And yours also, dearest Elizabeth, is it not?" said Coventry, taking her hand entreatingly. She hesitated and stood silent.

"Have me executed at once, sir, in mercy and pity," said O'Neill to the admiral. "Let it be now—the sooner the better. This I cannot stand. 'Tis too much."

"Not so," replied the admiral gravely. "I will consider the matter further and consult with you again. Meanwhile if you will give me your parole I will allow you the freedom of the castle."

"Parole? The given, sir. Faith, I hardly think you could drive me away."

God bless him! by revealing the circumstances and plans and the ultimate purpose of your rebellious captain."

"Clearly an impossible proposition," said O'Neill, bowing.

"That, stop!" said the admiral. "Now that I recall it, you gave me your word of honor that you came here to see this lady."

"And that is true, sir. I might have escaped to my ship with ease, in possession of the information I desired to get, but I came up to the castle to see her."

WHAT HAS BECOME OF EVANGELISTS?

After Collecting Some Money They Could Not Be Located by Miss Mary Kimball This Morning.

What has become of the Reverends J. I. Jones and E. St. McCoy, evangelists who conducted revival meetings at the Mary Kimball Mission Monday and Tuesday evening? They failed to appear at the meeting that was advertised for last night and this morning, Miss Kimball made a thorough search for them but without reward. They had been rooming with Mrs. Fisher on Pleasant street but inquiries developed the fact that they had not been seen there yesterday afternoon, last night or this morning. Miss Kimball is wondering at their sudden disappearance. They arrived Monday and were directed to the mission. Mr. Jones said he was an ordained Presbyterian minister and Mr. McCoy professed to be a clergyman of the Baptist church. Their meetings Monday and Tuesday evening were very successful and collected some money throughout the city. Miss Kimball knows of seven dollars they gathered in but how much more extensive their financial operations were is not known. Concerning this matter Miss Kimball received a postal card this morning from Chicago. It was to the effect that not enough money could be raised to pay expenses and that the writer would send a letter explaining his sudden departure. The name signed was H. B. Jones. Miss Kimball looks suspiciously on the sudden change of attitude and believes that there was plenty of time for the preacher to explain before leaving. No street number address was given so she has no means of communicating with the writer. Another point that does not entirely please is the fact that they brought little baggage, saying Mrs. McCoy would come Thursday with that. The delay was explained by the statement that the pair had just come from Denver, where a series of successful sessions had been held.

Value of Plant Cultivation.
The growing recognition of the necessity for the systematic governmental introduction of exotic plants is indicated by the announcement that in the near future there will be held in Paris an international conference devoted to the selection and introduction of useful plants. The work of the bureau of plant industry in this country has been fully appreciated by the farmers and commercial seedmen, as well, and already the returns from new crops introduced through the bureau's agency have repaid many fold in the federal expense incurred in their discovery.

Wishing and Winning.
There is a vast difference, says a wise philosopher, between wishing and winning. Many a good man has failed because he had his wishbone where backbone ought to have been.

CHICAGO DIXIE MINING CO.

A MONEY MAKER FROM THE START

The property of the Chicago-Dixie consists of 422 acres of highly mineralized ground in the celebrated Dixie mining district, Churchill county, Nevada, located about 35 miles north of Wonder in the new mining district of Dixie. Our property was among the first locations. The famous Carpenter mine is in the same district and it is reported that they are sacking rich ore running $300 to $16,000 per ton.

C. J. Godard, our superintendent, reports a fabulously rich strike on the other side of our property on the same ridge. Mountains of ore outcroppings on the numerous veins discovered on the Chicago Dixie property on which surface assays were made running $2.77 to $36.00 per ton. This surface showing certainly is remarkable and indicates the making of a great mine with millions of tons in sight. The company is incorporated under the laws of Nevada and is capitalized at 2,000,000 shares, par value $1.00 each, fully paid and non-assessable, no personal liability, and 1,200,000 shares of the capital stock was put in the treasury to develop, equip and operate the property. Our entire property is paid for by cash and stock. We have no debts and money in treasury.

Bear in mind that there is more money made in legitimate mining than in any other business to be found. We offer you now a grand opportunity to become a stockholder in Chicago Dixie. A small block of stock is now offered at the low price of 5c per share. Who will be the first to secure 10,000, 5,000, 2,000 or 1,000 shares at 5c and see it grow? Payments can be made on instalments, 1-5 down and 4 equal monthly payments, or all cash with 5 per cent discount. We offer you a fair and square deal from start to finish. Not an officer receives a cent of salary. The money is used to develop and put the mine onto a dividend paying basis. You cannot afford to let this opportunity pass by without subscribing for some of this stock. Do it now while you can get it at the ground floor bargain counter price of 5 cents per share.
